MUSIC FOR ADULTS

Discover the music in you...at any age! Whether returning to music instruction after many years, pursuing a lifelong passion, or just getting started, adult students at Brookline Music School share an enthusiasm for music that adds valuable dimension to our artistic community. Individual goals may range from personal enrichment to professional development, or include the desire to share music in a social setting. BMS welcomes students of all levels and backgrounds, and offers a wide array of scheduling options seven days a week.

PRIVATE INSTRUCTION

Private lessons are the core component of musical study for many adults. From beginners to very advanced students, adults studying at BMS may choose from a wide selection of orchestral, jazz, and folk instruments, as well as piano and voice. A full list of offerings is available at BMSmusic.org/private-lessons.

Each student is carefully matched with an appropriate instructor based on level, specific musical interests, and learning style. Teachers tailor lessons closely to the needs and goals of adult students, and may shift focus to technique, repertoire, or theory as needed. Students are encouraged, but not required, to share their music in performances ranging from group workshops to formal recitals.

PERFORMING ENSEMBLES

Playing music with others in a collaborative setting is an enjoyable and rewarding experience for any musician. BMS offers a variety of ensemble options for adults of all levels. Performance opportunities at BMS and outside venues are included as part of the program. Ensembles are open to adult students who have had at least two years of recent private study, and play at an intermediate level.

WORKSHOPS & SALONS

In addition to regular recitals, workshops, and master classes led by both faculty and distinguished guests, Brookline Music School provides an evening Salon Series specifically for our adult student community. Salons offer an informal and supportive forum to share works-in-progress and discuss all things musical.
